EX PARTE SUIT WILL BE BROUGHT

City Solicitor Campbell Probably Will File a Petition This Week in Circuit Court to Get Decision on the Disputed Question

LOCAL SELF GOVERNMENT IS ISSUE

"I shall not wait for a formal resolution to be adopted by the general council, before instituting ex parte proceedings to determine whether or not the general assembly transcended its authority in fixing a minimum police force for cities of the second class," said City Solicitor Campbell today. "I take it that the agreement reached in the committee of the whole and ratified by both boards at special sessions, will be sufficient for me to proceed."

"The point raised is whether or not the general assembly, when it amended the charters of second class cities, prescribing that the police force must consist of at least 30 men, was acting within its powers, or whether it transgressed on the right of local self-government, which is inherent in the community.

"It would not take us long to settle the controversy. I shall file a petition in the circuit court, probably this week. I am ready to go ahead as soon as the board of aldermen concurs in the joint agreement. A similar point has been passed on by the court in a case going up from Lexington, when the general assembly undertook to establish the pay for firemen. The court then distinguished between policemen and firemen, on the ground that the fire department is a purely local institution, created by ordinance, while the policemen are peace officers, sometimes performing state duties."

PETRIED CHILD TAKEN FROM MOTHER BY SURGEON

Suffolk, Va., Jan. 29.—A remarkable surgical operation was performed here which resulted in the removal of a petrified child from a woman named Gales. She came here from North Carolina and was pronounced suffering from an internal tumor. She had been affected more than three years. The child had turned to stone and weighed five and one half pounds.

NO SITE BOUGHT FOR GLASS PLANT

Announcement of the probable purchase of a site for the Finley glass plant has resulted in an authorized statement that no sale has been made, and that several pieces of property are being considered, only one of which was mentioned. The locations under consideration are withheld until a decision is made.

EXPLOSION IN SERVIAN PALACE

Mysterious Blast Shatters Windows of Royal Home in Belgrade.

Belgrade, Servia, Jan. 29.—A mysterious explosion occurred at the palace last night, which shattered many windows of the building. It was stated that the explosion resulted from leaving a quantity of gunpowder and cartridges too near a stove in the private apartments of the crown prince. Nobody was injured by the explosion.

Brother and Sister, Twins, Active Though Nearing Four Score Years

Paducah can claim the distinction of having one of the oldest living twins in the United States. A paper in Oklahoma City says that Alfred Stevens and his brother Alvin, twins who recently celebrated their 75th birthday, are the oldest living twins in the United States, but Mrs. K. C. Van Pelt, of the Cochran apartments on Ninth street, with her twin brother, Capt. George C. Lee, of Jeffersonville, Ind., celebrated their 77th birthday last December 12.

The Stevens brothers live in North Dakota and were in Oklahoma for their health. The Chicago Tribune in 1900 gave an account of the 63th birthday of Mrs. N. Stevens and Mrs. N. C. Mighell, twin sisters living in Plano, Ill., and said they were the oldest living twins then in the country. But Mrs. Van Pelt is three years ahead of that record.

The family, of which Mrs. Van Pelt and Captain Lee are members, is noted for longevity. Mrs. Van Pelt's grandmother died when she was 107 years old and she has an aunt living in middle Kentucky who is 99 years old. Her own being inconvenienced by her, Mrs. Van Pelt is as active as a woman of forty, today.

Capt. George C. Lee is known the length and breadth of the Ohio river. He is foreman in Howard's shipyards in Jeffersonville, Ind., and has been working in the one shipyard for fifty years. At 77 years of age, he is an active man, for his position requires being on his feet all day, superintending the construction of steamboats. He built the steamer Kentucky of this port. His father ran on the river from Louisville to New Orleans long before stern wheel steamboats were known.

Six living brothers and sisters of Mrs. Van Pelt's family have an aggregate age of 474 years. The youngest is 70 years old and the oldest is 80.

There is only one kind of a newspaper circulation statement that is worth any consideration and that is the daily detailed statement. The Sun is the only Paducah paper printing such a statement.

"BUSTER" KNOX WED.

North Hampton, Mass., Jan. 29.—Six trainmen are dead and many passengers injured as the result of a wreck on the Fitchburg division of the Boston & Maine railroad near West Deerfield this morning. All were in the express train, which was standing in a deep cut when another train crashed into it.

CHICAGO EPIDEMIC.
Chicago, Jan. 29.—Four hundred and seventy-two new cases of contagious diseases were reported to the city health department last night for the 24 hours. This breaks all records since the present epidemic started. Of the new cases, 407 are scarlet fever, 29 diphtheria, 27 measles and 9 miscellaneous.

BOTH GET DAMAGES.
Norfolk, Jan. 29.—Marla, 30, and Victoria, 35, each claiming to be the lawful wife of Samuel Jones, who was killed by the collapse of a bridge, here Saturday, and whose body is still in the river, appeared today to put in damage claims. Each had witnesses and the railway company disposed of the matter by settling with both women on the same basis.

THAW SATISFIED WITH KNOWLEDGE

Counsel Give Him Heart to Heart Talk and Explain Purpose of Plan of Defense in Murder Trial

ANOTHER JURYMEN ACCEPTED.

New York, Jan. 29.—Harry Thaw had a heart to heart talk with his counsel last evening in which details of his defense were explained to him. After his outburst yesterday it was decided to turn him of the course his counsel is taking in his defense, and today he was in a calm state of mind, seemingly contented with the moves of his lawyers. The thought of being sent to a mad house excited Thaw and his counsel have the greatest difficulty in handling him when this important feature of the case is discussed with him.

All the Thaw family was present when court opened this morning. A number of witnesses called were rejected. Just before noon, John Deven, traveling freight agent, was rejected as the tenth juror.

No Unwritten Law.

Dolphin M. Delmas, when asked to outline the defense, said: "It would hardly be professional to disclose our case. You may say, however, that it will come strictly within the statutes of New York. There is no higher law in this state, and all this talk about the 'unwritten law' is hush. Nod can I see the efficacy of a plan of emotional insanity. There is really no such thing. A man may be temporarily insane, but that is quite another matter."

"HAUNTS OF SHAKESPEARE."

Subject of Address by Mr. Norman Blackett at High School.

Norman Blackett, leading man for Louis James, spoke to the pupils of the Paducah High school yesterday on "The Haunts of Shakespeare." His address was excellent and greatly appreciated. Tomorrow afternoon Mr. Charles B. Hanford, whose company plays at the Kentucky tomorrow night, will lecture before the High school. Mr. Hanford has appeared before High school pupils before.

MARINE LAWS MAY BE INVOKED HERE

Dry Docks and Railroad Or ders in Conflict

Illinois Central Fears That Pressure on Trestle on River Will Endanger Property.

HIGH WATER CAUSES TROUBLE

Marine law and railroad bridge and trestle law are likely to come to a test of supremacy between the Illinois Central railroad and the Paducah Dry Docks company over the tying of the latter company's floating property to the former's trestle on First street.

The rise in the river naturally has brought all river craft which remain permanently along the river front, much nearer to the top of the wharf. The dry docks and several small craft belonging to the company have been raised by the rising river until they are against and in some instances over the trestle of the Illinois Central.

Yesterday the railroad company as a precautionary measure, notified the dry docks company to remove its floating property back from the trestle. The same order has been given to all other boats and boat owners along the trestle, as it was feared their bumping against it and resting on it might damage the trestle.

Capt. Young Taylor, of the dry docks, asserts that in the present stage of the river it is impossible for him to move the dry docks back from the trestle, and that it is the only thing to which he can tie up without running a line across the trestle to some fixed object beyond the Western District warehouse. A line above the water across the trestle probably would be as troublesome to the railroad as tying to the trestle.

Apparently there is no way to pull the docks back from the trestle until the river falls sufficiently to place them lower than the trestle, which at this point makes a decline to Jefferson street and then up to First street. Captain Taylor thinks the trestle is too low at this point.

On the other hand, with water all around the trestle, the heavy strain from the docks and other craft bumping against it and being tied to it, is thought by the railroad to be dangerous to the safety of the trestle for traffic. If the dry docks are pushed out farther into the river, access to them would be difficult.

Some coal cars were let down the trestle toward Jefferson street this morning alongside of the dry docks until the water was above the trucks. With the exception of some rafts used to make an avenue of access and egress to the dry docks, these cars would not strike any part of the docks or other boats near the trestle, if they were pushed on into First street. But the heavy swells sent in to the shore by passing steamboats, the railroad thinks easily could carry a boat up to the trestle or across it, and in that event, the cars would strike the obstruction with probably damage to life and property.

Traffic over the trestle will not be resumed until the river falls more, and probably not until it falls enough to permit an inspection of the trestle where it has been submerged. Speaking of the difference of opinions over the situation, Capt. Young Taylor, superintendent of the Paducah Dry Docks company, said this morning:

Statement of Position.

"We have a 99 year lease on the river front we occupy. We are not responsible for the rise in the river which raised our property up to the trestle and we are going to stay here until the falling river takes us down. I have marine law on my side and believe my position will be sustained in any court. At any rate we will be on hand every day to keep up our side of the question. The trestle at this point is too low, anyhow. The railroad company can be made to raise its trestle like it ought to be and then boats would not get over the trestle when the river gets as high as it is now."

J. T. Donovan, agent of the Illinois Central, in giving the railroad side of the controversy said:

"Mr. Taylor was notified yesterday to move his property back from the trestle purely as a precautionary measure. The trestle may be greatly damaged by the heavy barges bumping into it. All other floating property owners along the trestle have complied with the order and we did not

COUNTESS OF YARMOUTH, SISTER OF HARRY K. THAW.

THE Countess of Yarmouth, who came to America to attend the trial of Harry K. Thaw for the murder of Stanford White, was Miss Alice Thaw before her marriage to the Earl of Yarmouth. Her brother's rash act caused her to retire from London society and later led her to cross the Atlantic and show her sympathy by appearing in the New York court where the trial is being held.

Broadway Lunch Stand Proprietor Arrested on Liquor Selling Charge

Ministers Take Hand in Investigating Reports That There Was Something More Than Soft Drinks Sold

FIRST CASE IN POLICE COURT.

Theodore Peters, proprietor of a lunch and soft drink stand at 1040 Broadway, was presented in police court this morning on a charge of selling liquor without a license. The case was continued pending the acquisition of witnesses. Peters was refused a saloon license last July, as expected the dry docks company to object to it. However, the order will stand and though we have no feeling in the matter at all, when it becomes necessary to attend to the company's interest, vigorous action will be taken."

If the river falls fast here, as it is at all points above, the question may be solved for the present without any further friction between the two companies. But the question is one which recurs every spring when the regular rise comes and at all irregular rises like the present one.

CLIENT INSISTS ON WITHDRAWING

Unusual action developed in circuit court this morning when Mrs. Anna Scott appeared in open court and against the objections of her attorneys dismissed without prejudice her case against the Illinois Central for $25,000 damages for the death of her husband, James S. Scott. Mrs. Scott's husband was killed at Fulton by a switch engine. The step he was standing on was jerked off by a loose air hose. Attorneys Taylor and Lucas represented her, and advised against a dismissal. She appeared determined, and her attorneys failing to dismiss the case, adopted the only sure course.

RIVER IS FALLING SLIGHTLY TODAY

First Glimpse of Muddy Bank in Many Weeks

Steamboat Lines Preparing to Resume Suspended Schedules at Early Date.

LITTLE DAMAGE AT PADUCAH

One-tenth of a foot fall in 24 hours hardly is noticeable on the wharf but the first peep of muddy banks since January 16 was afforded this morning when the gauge registered 45.6. The fall since yesterday morning is the first minus sign in the river stages report for Paducah in 12 days.

The wind whipped around to the dangerous southern quarter early this morning ominously suggesting rain, or at the best, snow. All river towns will be on the anxious seat until the river goes down sufficiently to make a flood stage rise improbable.

Suspended schedules of the steamboat lines will soon be resumed and business at the wharf will reflect the effect immediately. "Cussing" rosters slipping and struggling under heavy loads up and down the muddy banks will bring back a picturesque touch to the various river landings.

Little positive damage to property and no loss of life have attended the high water. In the inconvenience occasioned the greatest loss has resulted, from the suspended traffic over railroad switches, stopping work on the new sewer system, and cutting into possible profits of the steamboats by submerging landings, and tying up intercourse between the country and city. There were few losses on river bottom farms around Paducah.

INTO BANKRUPTCY

Creditors of J. R. Roberts Attempt to Force Him.

A petition to force J. R. Roberts, the local dry goods merchant who assigned to E. Farley last week, into bankruptcy, has been filed at Louisville in the federal court by Louisville creditors, J. R. Grogan, of Paducah, and James R. Duncan, of Louisville, are attorneys representing creditors. The case has been referred to Referee Bagby for trial, and the date of preliminary hearing has been set for February 4, in Referee E. W. Bagby's office. The schedule shows over $6,000 liabilities.

Car of Oil Burns.

Sixty-four barrels of oil were burned yesterday in a box car at Creal Springs, Ill., on the Illinois Central. The car caught fire while the train was en route to Paducah. It was kicked into a siding at Creal Springs and other cars in the train were saved. The origin of the fire is unknown. The loss will amount to several thousand dollars.

It was at a spiritualists' meeting, and the medium was nettled because one old fellow in the rear of the hall persisted in dozing throughout the lecture.

Determined to frighten him into wakefulness, the medium stepped from the platform walking quickly to the nodding man, touched him lightly on the shoulder, and said, in sepulchral tones:

"I shall order up the spirit now!" "Tha'sh all ri," came the unexpected answer. "Make mine a high-ball an' I'll pay the darn bill."

MADISON COMPANY COULD SHIP COAL

When Kentucky Mines Had No Cars for Product

Claim Is Made That Illinois Central Owns Mines in Southern Illinois.

BROUGHT OUT AT HEARING.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 29.—The complaint filed by William Eades, president of the Illinois Coal company, against the Illinois Central Railroad company, charging discrimination in the distribution of coal cars, the partial hearing of which was held at Greenville ten days ago and which was resumed in Louisville, bids fair to be far reaching in its scope. In fact, what seemed at first an insignificant complaint which would be brushed aside in a day or two, will likely be an important link in a general investigation of the methods of the coal combine of the United States and the big railroads. The interstate commerce commission is watching the turn of affairs in the present investigation and there is no telling how soon it will take a hand in the matter.

Plenty of Cars for Illinois Coal.

It developed Saturday in the hearing before the railroad commission through the testimony of J. H. Rudisell, manager of the Memphis Coal company, which deals in coal at Memphis, that during the past few months he could secure all the coal he wanted from the Madison Coal corporation which operates about twenty-five coal mines in Southern Illinois, but he could get very little from Kentucky. The headquarters of this company is in St. Louis, Mo. Mr. Rudisell said that he received telegram after telegram from the company urging him to buy their coal. He said that he could get twenty to forty carloads at a time and could get the coal the next day after it was ordered.

Very Few for Kentucky Product.

While he could get all he wanted from the Illinois mines on the Illinois Central he said he was able to secure but little of the Kentucky coal, also on the Illinois Central, which he preferred to handle and which his customers wanted. His testimony was that he could have sold ten times as much Kentucky coal as he could get. He had a contract with the Illinois Coal company, but the company was unable to fill the contract because the Illinois Central railroad would not furnish the cars. The witness filed the telegrams from the Madison Coal corporation begging him to buy its coal, as it could furnish him all he could sell.

Roads Confiscated Coal.

The testimony of W. W. Jenkins, chief clerk of the West Kentucky Coal company, which operates extensive collieries in Union and Webster counties, was that the contracts of the Illinois Central railroad with the coal companies on its lines were for steady coal at from 90 cents to $1.10 a ton. Often the railroad would confiscate numerous cars of lump coal for its own use and would only pay the steam, or mixed coal prices. Should the coal companies make a claim for a higher price for the lump coal it would have to go through the claim department and would probably be six months or a year before the companies could get their money. This often forced the companies to accept the steam coal price.

Mr. Jenkins said that often he would have as many as six cars of coal loaded and billed to customers and the Illinois Central railroad would confiscate the coal and his customers would be disappointed. A standing order seems to prevail among the agents of the Illinois Central railroad to confiscate all coal until its demand was supplied, no matter what the conditions or circumstances are. The witness also charged that he could get no cars at his mines when I. N. Wheatcroft, who owned the Togo mines near him and who built the railroad from Blackford to Dixon, connecting with the Illinois Central, could get all the cars he wanted. He said he saw strings of empty cars going to the Wheatcroft mines when he could get nothing like what he wanted. He said the agents would give him no satisfaction as to the apparent discrimination.

I. C. Said to Have Holding Company Notes.

While it has not been brought out in the present investigation, though it may be it is charged that the Illinois Central railroad is indirectly interested in the coal fields of southern Illinois. The Madison Coal corporation which controls so many mines in Illinois is nothing more than a holding corporation which controls coal lands and a large output in Kentucky and Illinois. It is alleged that the Illinois Central in turn, has in its treasury notes given by the Mississippi Valley corporation to the amount of over $1,300,000, with the stock of the various coal companies attached as collateral.

BULL AND BUFFALO

Mexicans See Real Fight in Ring at Durango.

El Paso, Tex., Jan. 29.—Craving new sensations and fresh horrors of the ring, followers of bull fights were treated to a battle royal between a North Dakota buffalo and a vicious bull from Durango, Mex., fighting stock today. For a half hour honors between the animals were even, and then the bull sulkily retired to the side of the ring and refused to proceed with the fight. The buffalo indicated he had enough and did not press the advantage he was gaining as the struggle drew toward its close. It was the largest crowd that ever attended an event in the arena of Juarez, across the Rio Grande from El Paso. The novel event had been well advertised, and there was great disappointment that blood did not flow more freely, although there was plenty of excitement while the fight was on.

CITY HALL REPAIRS

Brought Home to Members of General Council.

While the boards of councilmen and aldermen were meeting as a committee of the whole yesterday afternoon in the council chamber, the sun beat down on the city hall roof with great intensity, and fast melted the ice and snow. There was a leak in the roof, and a thin stream of water came through the steel ceiling into the council chamber. It was followed by other streams, and soon conspirators had to be placed under them to catch the fall. They drove Clark Bailey away from his desk. The council had a practical demonstration that repairs are needed about the city hall.

DIES OF GRIEF OVER SUICIDE

Father of Druggist Who Ended Life Succumbs to Sorrow.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 29.—Gilbert Fish, of Dunas, Minn., father of E. W. Fish, a druggist, of Fargo, who committed suicide in Minneapolis a few weeks ago, died today of a broken heart while in this city straightening up the affairs of his son. The father, who is a prominent merchant of Dunas, came here last Wednesday to arrange for the disposal of his son's property and was taken suddenly ill Friday. The son was well and favorably known here. An arrest for selling liquor illegally caused him to end his life by taking poison.

The Moon's Atmosphere.

If we admit snow and ice we must admit that the moon has an atmosphere. Here we clash with the prevailing notions of the moon's condition, says a writer in the London Illustrated News. If astronomers have felt certain of anything, they have felt certain that the moon is absolutely devoid of atmosphere. If the moon has atmosphere it ought to retract the rays of a star passing behind the moon, just as the stem of a spoon seems bent in a glass of water. But no such refraction occurs. That there is, however, a very thin lunar atmosphere Prof. Pickering has demonstrated by the best photographic proof.

As to vegetation on the moon Prof. Pickering has observed spots which appear after sunrise, darken rapidly toward noon, and fade away at sunset. They are not shadows, the observer, therefore, considers them indisputable proof of lunar vegetation. The terrible cold of the moon would be no disproof of this, for many bacteria cannot be killed by the lowest temperature which science can produce.

Real pleasure differs from the false in that it remains pleasant when one looks back upon it.

THEATRICAL NOTES

AT THE KENTUCKY.

Tuesday Night, "Hooligan's Troubles."

Wednesday Night, Charles B. Hanford, in "Julius Caesar."

"MERRY WIVES OF WINDSOR."

If Louis James was surprised that the applause, which greeted his entrance in the first act of the "Merry Wives of Windsor" at The Kentucky last night, came chiefly from upstairs, he will be relieved when he learns that only about one-half the audience down stairs witnessed his entrance. The vision of the others was absorbed in a broad sea of human backs and arms wildly flourishing in distracting haste to get rid of superfluous wraps and furs and overcoats and hats, so that the owners of the same, who made their entrance coincidentally with Mr. James, might see the rest of the show in comfort. Those who arrived on time last night wished Mr. James some of the Mansfield spirit. If the curtain at the Kentucky theater is to go up at 8:15 o'clock, then all those who arrive late should be compelled to wait in the rear until after the first act. Otherwise, the curtain should not go up until everybody is in his seat.

Even in his most farcical of comedies Shakespeare draws his characters with exactness, and there is much that is human to interest an audience in the "Merry Wives of Windsor" when interpreted by an intelligent, capable company such as Louis James had with him at The Kentucky theater last night. Mr. James in developing the character of Falstaff has drawn heavily on the second part of King Henry IV and taken some of the best speeches out of that play to supply what he thought might be lacking in the "Merry Wives of Windsor." Then the latter has been expurgated of some of its characteristic Elizabethan humor and straightened out by acts and scenes to suit modern stage conditions. The result has been a strengthening that makes the "Merry Wives of Windsor" a most interesting play. Mr. James' Falstaff is a most human character; in physical proportions historically correct; in disposition true to tradition, in humor not the least lacking. Mr. James' conception of the rollicking, fat knight is almost ideal. Sharing equal honors with him is Aphie James as Mrs. Ford. The gaiety of this honest spouse and her companion Mrs. Page, who is ably portrayed by Miss Charlotte Lambert, make the play as a story. They are feminine in their plotting, venturing even onto the indelicacy in their merry mood and hunger for revenge. The parts could not have been better assumed. Norman Hackett in the role of the jealous Ford, plays a fellow to the other leading roles and the natural intensity of his acting furnishes a foil for the merry villain and the merry plotters. Paducahans were especially interested in the work of Lillian Lancaster, formerly Miss Flora May Clark, and her husband, J. Arthur Young. Miss Lancaster has a small part, that of "sweet Anne Page," but it gives her opportunity to display her talent, and her stage presence and the reading of her lines, gave the audience last night a desire to see "sweet Anne Page" more often on the stage. Mr. Young in the strutting part of "Mistral," the rather questionable follower of Sir John Falstaff, in voice and manner was the traditional Pistol of the classic stage. Mistress Quickly, the regular part assumed by Miss Nellie McHenry, whose reputation in comedy has long been established, put the audience in a jolly humor in her scenes with Sir John Falstaff.

Hanford's Opportunity.

The production of "Julius Caesar" by Chas. B. Hanford Wednesday at Kentucky, must inevitably awaken memories which are cherished with reverent interest by every student on the American stage. When Booth and Barrett formed their famous partnership and produced "Julius Caesar" on a scale of magnificence which astonished both the theatrical profession and the public, there was some curiosity as to who would play the part of "Mare Antony." It was immediately decided that Mr. Booth would play "Brutus" and that Mr. Barrett would play "Cassius." These two distinguished players were prompt in fixing on Charles B. Hanford for the other prominent role. It was a brilliant part for the young actor and he embraced it with befitting artistic enthusiasm. It is a somewhat remarkable fact that it was a performance in broad farce that paved the way for Mr. Hanford's appearance as a tragedian. When Robson and Crane were playing the "Comedy of Errors" Hanford was engaged in the supporting company with the part of "Aegeon." Despite its merry surroundings there is a strain of pathos and dignity in this character which Mr. Hanford brought out in a manner that attracted the notice of Lawrence Barrett and led to the subsequent distinguished association which paved the way for the career Hanford has since enjoyed. Hilarious Hysterics.

An amusing story comes from an exchange while it relates to a comedy and may be spurious, it's worth repeating since now it has local significance. A town character known as Hek Henderson, a subject to violent hicoughs, especially after imbibing freely of beer, is a resident of a certain western town. A comedy of renown known as Hooligan's Troubles, was announced to appear at the local theater. Two of the town reporters anticipating the fun of getting Hek allegedly boozed up to the show and getting him to hicoughing loudly, possibly between acts, provided themselves with three tickets and invited him to attend, but in getting him in condition, they imbibed in gleeful anticipation of the fun and got an unusual load themselves. But they got there. The fun, of course, was fast and furious, and they all got to laughing and finally roaring, when unexpectedly at the termination of the awful funny Jit-Ju crazy dance, by Hooligan, Jones, the friend went into hysterics—his friend followed, hicoughs sult, and Hek had to get them both out into the open air to prevent a riot in the gallery. The Hooligan troupe company in Hooligan's Troubles, appear at The Kentucky tonight. It is to be hoped there will be no Heks or Hicks in the audience.

The Greatest Cut Sale in Men's Wear Ever Inau-gured in Paducah

WEDNESDAY, January 30

Five Hundred Fancy Worsted, Cassimere and Cheviot Suits that Sold for $15, $18, $20, $22.50, $25 to be Sold in this Clearance Sale for - $5.98

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 30, at 8 o'clock, marks the opening of the greatest sale in Men's Wear ever inaugurated in Paducah. We shall then place on sale, for only $5.98, a selected lot of five hundred Men's Suits, all sizes, that formerly sold for $15 to $25. These suits are all this season's single and double breasted styles, and are from the very highest grade of Fancy Worsteds, Cassimeres and Cheviots. You, of course, want to know what powerful reason urges such radical reductions and we are more than willing to satisfy your curiosity.

These Are the Reasons:

In the first place, it's the weather. The mildness of the winter has caused us to have now on our shelves an abundance of fine suits. We are determined to get our money out of them as quickly as possible; to do so, we need your help, and if you know anything at all about clothing values we'll get it.

Again, we have a rule never to carry stock from one season to another. Our regular customers know that this is a rule which we never violate. The bright, up-to-the-minute tone of our displays, as each new season makes its appearance, proves this to them conclusively. Carrying old stock is expensive for us and unsatisfactory to our patrons.

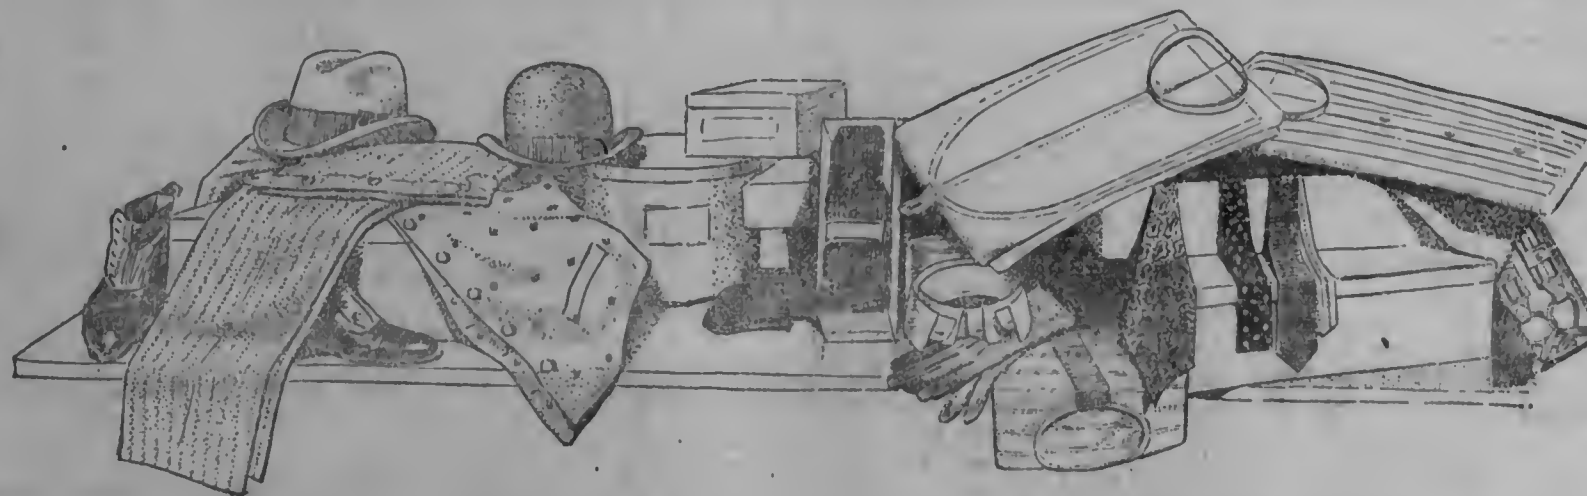

It is now the first of February, almost time for us to be making our displays of spring goods. They have been arriving, in increasing volume, for some time and we actually need room. There must be no waste space in a house like ours, where such huge stocks are carried.

These, then, are our motives in putting on this $5.98 sale. If you are a business man--perhaps a merchant--you will appreciate their force.

We do not wish to convey the impression that all our suits are included in this stupendous reduction, but we do want you to know that you are getting the pick and choice of some of the best merchandise in our shop. In no sense is this an odds and ends sale. The window displays will prove this; look at them.

Daily Thought.
 "Reverence is the true crown of youthful character."

A WISE COMPROMISE.

No one can blame those members of the general council who had the courage to hold out against precipitate ratification of the police program arbitrarily mapped out by the board of police and fire commissioners. The majority of the general council felt the lash of the party whip, but in their hearts they must have rebelled at the executive dictation apparent in the way the budget scheme was presented to them. There are two points in the controversy that challenge attention. The first was the action of the Kentucky general assembly in infringing on the right of Paducah to attend to her own local affairs. When the general council had seen fit to fix the police force at a certain numerical strength which was deemed sufficient to patrol the city, but not for election day purposes, the police and fire commissioners hastened to Frankfort and secured the passage of a partisan measure establishing the minimum number in Paducah at 30 men. The general council rightly considers that the representatives of the citizens of Paducah rather than the representatives from counties scattered over a distance of hundreds of miles from Paducah, are able to judge how many policemen are necessary, especially since Paducah people, and not the citizens of the state at large, have to foot the bill. But this was not enough. Having this amendment in the charter the board of police and fire commissioners impudently increased the police force without waiting for the incoming general council to pass the preliminary measure giving sanction to the board's intention. The board then presented its estimate of the amount necessary for salaries for the augmented force, and followed it with the declaration, that although the general council might decide not to appropriate that amount, the board would keep the full complement of men on duty until the money gave out and then "leave Paducah without police protection" until the end of the year. There was effrontery for you! Paducah citizens might go without protection, because the general council did not acquiesce in the arbitrary mandate of the police commissioners. The general council is vested with exclusive authority to raise revenue, to determine how much to appropriate funds, and yet, if a department may incur obligations and then put it upon brazenly to the general council to acquiesce or let the people take the consequences, the executive department is accorded ultimate power to coerce the legislative department in recording its will.

We are glad a compromise was reached, because we naturally sympathize with the policemen in their predicament. True, they didn't need to apply for their positions, but the positions were open, they did apply and they have been working. Any holding up of the funds would only injure them and their families. The minority members of the general council, who so gallantly stuck to the rights and prerogatives of the people's representatives in the legislative department, exhibited great discretion in agreeing to a compromise. While the city's employees will be taken care of, we shall have an opportunity to learn whether the state legislature has unlimited authority to abridge local self-government by special legislation, and whether such power gives an executive board authority to dictate to the legislative department of a municipal government.

With the most serious intention in the world, the Kentucky state railroad commission has made its annual report indicating that there is a scarcity of cars, which has much to do with the failure to furnish them to shippers, and advising the railroads to exchange with one another, and by all means to keep the cars moving. All of which is good, sound advice, such as a father might give to a son; but we are not entirely convinced that the information it takes the railroads by surprise. It does not require a railroad commission to point out to the railroads, or to the impatient would-be-shippers, either, that the railroads are not furnishing enough cars for the business. Railroads are held up to the guileless youth as the acme of perfection in organization and economy, and yet we learn that every great trunk line in the United States is getting farther and farther behind the demand for rolling stock, in the face of a prosperity that is five years old and growing, and we learn, again, that they are not economizing time or distance in the use of the cars they own. The findings of the railroad commission are, no doubt, correct and the reforms they recommend to the railroads are, no doubt, worthy of immediate adoption; but it is a grievous disillusionment for us to learn that railroad men are just human, and as careless and extravagant of time, space and movements as the rest of us, when we have looked always upon their marvelous perfection of co-operation with wondrous awe. Yet, it is something gained to get conditions down in the form of official records.

Unusual precautions taken to protect the jurors in the Taw case from temptation bring sharply into relief a reputation for our American jury system that is anything but gratifying. District Attorney Jerome evidently intends that both Thaw and the commonwealth shall have a fair trial, and he will see, not only that the modern adage, "No man can be hanged if he has plenty of money," shall have no bearing on this case; and that newspaper stories shall not reach the jury. That a jury should have to be guarded like a band of prisoners, is a hard commentary on the peers of America. We hear much criticism of courts, and the reproach that there is no longer justice to be had in state tribunals is common. But do we ever stop to consider why there is no longer justice to be had. There is little complaint about equity decisions. Invariably the complaint is heard in regard to jury trials. Therefore, it is not the court and the lawyers, it is the jury that is at fault. Who compose the jury? The voters. The fellows who send corrupt men to legislative bodies, are responsible for the graft system in politics. This same fellow, who votes for bad men, and returns odious verdicts, is the identical person, who is complaining most about the courts and their injustice. Men, who complain at conditions are of little use in this world. What we want is men, who will find out the cause of conditions and eradicate the cause. A motto in the eye is an unfortunate thing, but District Attorney Jerome has got one cause of injustice locked up in a hall bedroom of nights.

Vivid realism apparently distinguishes Oscar Wilde's treatment of the incident of Salome's dance before Herod and the decapitation of John the Baptist in the one act opera presented for the first time at the Metropolitan opera house in New York. The music was weird and delightful, and the decapitation esthetic enough, but the realism of Salome's dancing seems to have shocked grand opera patrons. The dance and some of Oscar Wilde's dramatic conceptions of this biblical episode might be cut out of the opera and put in a side show at Luna park next summer.

We speak of a man "who does not know when he is whipped"; but the fallacy of it lies in the fact that the fellow "who doesn't know when he is whipped," isn't whipped.

Fortunately, Mayor Yeiser knows when to cut the red tape.

BUDGET ADOPTED FOR FISCAL YEAR

Contemplates Legal Test of Charter Amendment

Police Budget Accordingly With Provision in Contingent Fund for Emergency.

COMMITTEE OF WHOLE AGREES

After a long session in committee of the whole, the general council yesterday afternoon agreed on an apportionment ordinance for the year and at a special session of the board of councilmen last night the ordinance passed it on two readings. The sidesmen will meet tonight and pass it.

The ordinance is a compromise by which the Republican members secure what they were fighting for in substance, without bringing hardship on anyone. The police force is to remain at its present numerical strength until the constitutionality of the act amending the charter of second class cities so as to make the minimum police force 30 men, is passed on. Instead of $30,000 the police budget is to consist of $28,000 with an additional $2,000 in the contingent fund, available in case the courts sustain the charter amendment and the action of the board of police and fire commissioners in appointing the additional men.

Other changes were cutting out the appropriation for the silver service for the gunboat "Paducah" and increasing the library fund from $3,500 to $4,000, the amount appropriated last year.

The contingent fund is now $6,500.

The city budget as finally adopted is:

FIELD LEFT $100,000,000.

Merchant's Estate Must Pay $1,000,000 in Taxes.

Chicago, Jan. 29.—Detailed figures on the estate of the late Marshall Field show he had accumulated more than $100,000,000. The taxable personal property of the estate amounts to $49,977,270, on which more than $500,000 must be paid this year in taxes.

This is as against the valuation of $2,500,000 placed on his personal estate by Mr. Field himself, and the valuation of $25,000,000 which the assessors, under protest by the executor, took as a basis for taxation last year.

To the figures must be added $30,000,000 in real estate, from which actual money paid in taxes will be more than $360,000 making a total of taxes to be paid to the public by the Field estate of about $1,000,000 annually.

The estate consists of personal property totaling $42,851,804.15 with stocks and bonds listed at par, but with an estimated market value of $55,000,000; $30,000,000 worth of real estate in Cook county, and $8,000,000 realty in New York.

Cuban Trade.

Washington, Jan. 29.—Never before in the history of the United States commerce with Cuba was the export trade of this country to that island so great as during the last calendar year. A statement issued by the bureau of statistics shows that the total exports from this country to Cuba were valued at $46,491,944, which is more than $2,000,000 over the exportations for 1905. The importations from Cuba were valued at $85,055,295, a falling off of $14,000,000 as compared with 1905. The marked decline in American importations is accounted for because of the reduction in the price of sugar.

ODELL DEPOSIT CASE IS DECIDED

This Time in Favor of Plaintiff by Jury

Money Involved in Deal at Mayfield Alleged to Have Figured in Gambling Contract.

WILL BE APPEALED AGAIN

The jury this morning returned a verdict for the plaintiff in the case of C. W. Boswell and Z. T. Long, of Mayfield, against the Citizens' Savings bank of this city. It was the second trial of the case, the bank winning the first.

Boswell and Long went into deals operating at Mayfield through a branch office of the Paducah Commission company then conducted by Gilbert & Arenz. They lost. Immediately a suit was filed against the Paducah Commission company to recover the amount, alleging that it was not a legal, but a gambling debt, and asking for an attachment against the Exchange bank, of Mayfield; and the Citizens' Savings bank and City National bank of Paducah, for any money found deposited to the Paducah Commission company, Gilbert & Arenz, or the Odell Commission company.

Maud K. Balthaser against the Illinois Life Insurance company, suit for $1,000 policy on her late husband's life. Continued.

In the case of James Herring against Mary E. Allison an agreed judgment for $150 was entered. He asked for $300 commission for the sale of a farm.

Gray & Dudley company against E. Rehkopf Saddlery company, O. B. Starks, Starks & Ullman, W. S. O'Brien, Cohanus Manufacturing company and the American-German National bank for $250 is on trial.

Marriage Licenses.

Leo E. Pettit to Gertrude E. Reitz, both of the city.
 Walter Cowgill, 30, to Sarah Griffith, 25, of Grnatsburg, Ill.

Deeds Filed.

Helen Westlake to Josie Sebastian, property on Kentucky avenue between Tenth and Eleventh streets, $1 and other considerations.
 F. G. Rudolph to Ishom Harvey, property in the county, $600.

Police Court.

The cold weather prompted Besilo Jones, Lula Wimberly and Robey Wilson, colored, to unload a car of planks gratis for the Illinois Central railroad yesterday afternoon at "Brakeman Row," south of Tennessee street. Illinois Central policemen arrived in time to prevent them from carrying the wood into their houses for fuel. Police Judge D. A. Cross fined them $20 and costs each and suspended judgment during good behavior.

Frank Jimmes, colored, was presented for petit larceny and the warrant filed away. A second warrant was issued, charging him with stealing laundry from the Stur laundry wagon several weeks ago on North Tenth street near Jefferson street. James has served one year in the penitentiary for shooting Gabe Fletcher, colored, in the thigh.

Spencer Moore, colored was held over for stealing less than $20 worth of coal from the Illinois Central.

Other cases: George Hawle, drunkenness, $1 and costs; Buck Whitehurst and Young Taylor, breach of peace, continued.

NATURE AS A RECONSTRUCTOR.

"Nature repairs her ravages—repairs them with her sunshine and with human labor."

Osteopathy is one of Nature's most used instruments in repairing her ravages. Take the Osteopathic treatment of headaches. It locates the primary cause and removes it, not in administering a common known sedative to on- and all alike, but by a simple mechanical manipulation.

So, in digestive disorders Osteopathy restores the nervous equilibrium to the stomach, bowels, liver, pancreas, etc., and a unity of action established the disorders are readily controlled and cured.

Constipation can be cured only by observing nature's laws. The regular movements of the bowels depend on their nerve and blood supply. If one or the other is disturbed in any way there is disorder—sickness. Osteopathy here again is Nature's cure.

I should like to tell you personally at any time of the great success I am having with the treatment and refer you to some of your friends who will eagerly attest to what Osteopathy is doing or has done for them. Phone me at 1407 at any time.

Man Who Shoots Another Fires at Policeman and Is Killed.

Denville, Va., Jan. 29.—R. E. Reynolds, a young merchant living near Chatham, this county, was killed in a pistol fight with three policemen in the tenderloin early today. Prior to the killing Reynolds had shot and injured Tom Corbin while in a resort. He ran out of the house, and the officers took him to be Albert Adkins, an escaped prisoner, and commanded him to halt, firing at the same time to frighten him. Reynolds returned the fire. Eight or ten shots were fired at him before he fell dead. None of the policemen was injured. The victim was about 28 years of age. Corbin's injuries are not regarded as fatal.

Anite City, La., Jan. 29.—"He hosted there would be another grass widow in the family, and I replied that there might be a widow, but certainly not a grass widow. Then I shot him." Josephine Alleece, an Italian girl 20 years old, so testified last night at her trial on the charge of murdering her brother-in-law, Joe Cattellento, and the jury acquitted her without leaving the room. The crowd gave the girl an ovation. Mrs. Alleece herself was deserted by her husband three months ago, and she said she did not want to see her sister, Bardetto, meet the same fate.

Gentlemen: Last November I was taken with a severe cold and cough. I was then recommended by a druggist at Covington, La., to try Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey and after using one 25c bottle I was completely cured. This testimonial was unsolicited, but you are at liberty to use it in any way you may choose. In my opinion you have by far the best cough medicine on the market. Yours truly,

PEOPLE AND SOCIAL EVENTS

Former Paducahan Married.
Announcement cards have just been received in the city, of the wedding of Mr. John Thorne Lane, formerly of Paducah, to Miss Eva May Kemp, of Brighton, Canada, on November 19, 1906. SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

Almost everybody knows that license should be paid in January; yet some people seem to forget it. This is intended as a friendly reminder FOR YOUR GOOD.

Ten per cent must be added to all license after February 1st. Naturally this is not a pleasant obligation to settle. It is also an unpleasant duty for the treasurer to collect it. Therefore endeavor to avoid it by your prompt attention.

Every business, occupation, agency and profession is liable for a license. Kindly call at the city treasurer's office at your earliest convenience that you may save this penalty, and greatly oblige.

Yours respectfully,
JOHN J. DORIAN,
City Treasurer.

Child Labor Statistics Published

Washington, Jan. 29.—The extent to which child labor is employed in the United States is set forth in a bulletin issued by the census bureau yesterday. The statistics presented are for 1900 and relate to the employment of children as bread-winners, of whom 1,750,000, in round numbers, between the ages of 10 and 15 were so employed. Bread-winners are defined as those earning money regularly by labor, contributing to the family support of appreciable assistance in mechanical or agricultural industry. By far the most important occupation for children is that of agricultural laborers, the numbers of children 10 to 15 years old so employed being 1,054,446.

Next in importance comes domestic service or the occupations of servants and waiters, in which 138,065 children were employed, most of them being girls.

Ages of Those Employed.
About one-third of the children employed in gainful occupations were fifteen years old and more than one-half were 14 to 15 years old. The number under 14 was 790,622, or 45.2 per cent. Of the total number of child bread winners 10 to 15 years of age 72.2 per cent. were boys.

Almost invariably the percentage of bread winners is much greater among foreign born children than among native born. The percentage among negro children is much higher than among white children.

The cotton mills furnish employment to children to a greater extent than any other manufacturing or mechanical industry. In 1900 the number of cotton mill operatives 10 to 15 years of age was 44,427.

Of the 71,622 messengers and errand and office boys in the United States 62 per cent. were district and telegraph messengers and errand boys, 23.3 per cent. were office boys and 14.7 per cent. were bundle and cash boys or girls.

Nine-tenths of the children in such service are boys.

The occupation of the textile worker or the needle trades furnishes employment to 35,070 children between 10 and 15 years old, of whom 5,316 were boys and 29,754 were girls. The total number of children 10 to 15 years old engaged in the tobacco and cigar factories was 11,462. Of the 49,998 glass workers 5,565 or 10.7 per cent. were from 10 to 15 years old.

Of the 23,657 children for whom statistics were specially compiled, 17,956 or 75.9 per cent. were living in homes with their parents, 3,380 representing 14.3 per cent. were living with widowed mothers and 578, or 2.4 per cent. with mothers who were living apart from their husbands and whose economic position was, therefore, likely to be analogous to that of a widow. The number of children that were either fatherless or were not living with fathers was 4,943, representing about one-fifth of the total number.

School Children.

The percentage of school children in total population, 5 to 9 years old, enumerated in the United States, was 59.3, which is only a little higher than the percentage (50.66) shown for the selected families included in this study. Of the number of children 10 to 14 years of age in these families only 21.9 per cent. were at school, while the corresponding percentage for the total number of children of that age in the United States was 79.8. But after these children reach the age at which the opportunity for employment as wage earners begins, their school attendance suffers.

Of the total number of children 10 to 14 years old in the United States 7.1 per cent. were illiterate as compared with 18.8 per cent. for the child bread winners of the same age included in this tabulation. For the messengers and errand and office boys the per cent. of illiteracy is comparatively small.

By far the greatest degree of illiteracy is shown for the children in cotton mills. In the south almost one-half of the cotton mill operatives 10 to 14 years of age are illiterate and about one-fourth of those 15 to 20 years of age. The smaller percentage in the other group of operatives would indicate that a good many of these children learn to read and write after they are 10 years old. But the percentage of illiteracy in the older group is still very high, rendering it probable that large numbers of these children are destined to remain illiterate for the rest of their lives.

A LAZY LIVER

May be only a tired liver, or a starved liver. It would be a stupid as well as a savage thing to beat a weary or starved man because he lagged in his work. So in treating the lagging, torpid liver it is a great mistake to lash it with strong drastic drugs. A torpid liver is but an indication of an ill-nourished, enfeebled body whose organs are weary with over-work. Start with the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition. Put them in working order and see how quickly your liver will become active. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvelous cures of "liver complaint," or torpid liver, by its wonderful control over the organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the stomach, increases the secretions of the blood-making glands, cleanses the system of poisonous accumulations, and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the defection of other organs.

Symptoms. If you have bitter or bad taste in the morning, poor or variable appetite, coated tongue, foul breath, constipation or irregular bowels, frequent weak, easily tired, despondent, frequent headaches, pain or distress in "small of back," gnawing or distressing feeling in stomach, perhaps nausea, bitter or sour "risings" in throat after eating, and kindred symptoms of weak stomach and torpid liver, or biliousness, no medicine will relieve you more promptly or cure you more permanently than Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Perhaps only a part of the above symptoms will be present at one time and yet point to torpid liver, or biliousness and weak stomach. Avoid all hot bread and biscuits, griddle cakes and other indigestible food and take the "Golden Medical Discovery" regularly and stick to its use until you are vigorous and strong.

Of Golden Seal root, which is one of the prominent ingredients of "Golden Medical Discovery," Dr. Roberts Bartholow, of Jefferson Medical College, says: "Very useful as a stomachic (stomach) tonic and in atonic dyspepsia. Cures gastric (stomach) catarrh and headache accompanying same."

Dr. Grover Coe, of New York, says: "Hydrastis (Golden Seal root) exercises an especial influence over mucous surfaces. Upon the liver it acts with equal certainty and efficacy. As a cholagogue (liver invigorator) it has few equals." Dr. Coe also advises it for affections of the spleen and other abdominal viscera generally, and for scrofulous and glandular diseases, cutaneous eruptions, indigestion, debility, chronic diarrhea, constipation, also in several affections peculiar to women, and in all chronic derangements of the liver, also for chronic inflammation of bladder, for which Dr. Coe says "it is one of the most reliable agents of cure."

Prof. John King, M. D., late of Cincinnati, author of the AMERICAN DISPENSARY, gives it a prominent place among medicinal agents, reiterates all the foregoing writers have said about it, he does also Prof. John M. Souder, M. D., late of Cincinnati. Dr. Souder says: "It stimulates the digestive processes and increases the assimilation of food. By these means the blood is enriched, and the consequent improvement on the glandular and nervous systems are natural results." Dr. Souder further says, "in relation to its general effect upon the system, there is no medicine in use about which there is such general unanimity of opinion. It is universally regarded as the tonic, useful in all debilitated states."

Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Medical College, Chicago, says of Golden Seal root: "It is a most superior remedy in catarrhal gastritis (inflammation of the stomach), chronic constipation, general debility, in convalescence from protracted fevers, in prostrating night-sweats. It is an important remedy in disorders of the womb." (This agent, Golden Seal root, is an important ingredient of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for women's weaknesses, as well as of the "Golden Medical Discovery.") Dr. Ellingwood continues, "in all catarrhal conditions it is useful."

Much more, did space permit, could be quoted from prominent authorities as to the wonderful curative properties possessed by Golden Seal root.

We want to assure the reader that "Golden Medical Discovery" can be relied upon to do all that is claimed for Golden Seal root in the cure of all the various diseases as set forth in the above brief extracts, for its most prominent and important ingredient is Golden Seal root. This agent is, however, strongly reinforced, and its curative action greatly enhanced by the addition in just the right proportion of Queen's root, Stone root, Black Cherrybark, Bloodroot, Mandrake root and chemically pure glycerine. All of these are happily and harmoniously blended into a most perfect pharmaceutical compound, now favorably known throughout most of the civilized countries of the world. Bear in mind that each and every ingredient entering into the "Discovery" has received the endorsement of the leading medical authorities of our time, and each is a standard remedy in the highest terms. What other medicine put up for sale through druggists can show any such professional endorsement? For dyspepsia, liver troubles, all chronic catarrhal affections of whatever name or nature, lingering coughs, bronchitis, throat and lung affections, the "Discovery" can be relied upon as a sovereign remedy.

A little book of extracts treating of all the several ingredients entering into Dr. Pierce's medicines, being extracts from standard medical works, of the different schools of practice will be mailed free to any one asking (by postal card or letter), for the same, addressed to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and giving the writer's full post-office address plainly written.

JUNE CONVENTION FOR REPUBLICANS

Louisville Police Are Seeking Horace Lampton, Lover of Katie Bryant.

CHARGED WITH HER MURDER.

Louisville, Jan. 29.—The Republican state convention to nominate the Republican candidates for governor and other state officers will be held here the latter part of May or the first of June. It is not known where he is now.

FIND FORGED SCRIP AT PEORIA

Bogus School Securities Discovered Hidden in Box of Rubbish.

Peoria Ill., Jan. 29.—With the finding of a bundle of forged school scrip, executed by Newton C. Dougherty, ex-superintendent of public schools, in a box of rubbish at the public library building, the members of the school board now hope for a favorable outcome of the suit against treasurers and bondsmen for the amount of the shortages. The scrip has been locked up in a safety deposit box and will be kept there until offered in evidence in court. When the school board safe was blown open several weeks ago, and what was thought to be all of the Dougherty forged scrip stolen, there was consternation in the school board. The prosecution expected to prove Dougherty's signature to the scrip and secure judgment against him, upon which they would be able to proceed with liens against the property of other members of the Dougherty family and his relatives. It is known that Dougherty gave a large amount of his property to his sons and daughter and members of his wife's family. It was first necessary to get judgment before anything could be done to recover the property which he had transferred.

BAILEY DECEIVED.

Not Told That Waters-Pierce and Standard Were Same.

Austin, Texas, Jan. 29.—It was learned today that J. D. Johnson, St. Louis, attorney for the Waters-Pierce Oil company in his testimony last night before the legislative committee which is investigating the charges against Senator Bailey, gave an account of a conference between Waters-Pierce Oil company and Standard Oil company officials, which was held at Standard Oil headquarters, 26 Broadway, New York, last fall, at which Mr. Bailey was present. He said Mr. Bailey was informed at that conference for the first time that he had been deceived into believing that the Standard company owned none of the stock of the Waters-Pierce company. Mr. Bailey became very indignant at the deception which had been practiced upon him. Mr. Johnson said, and arose and left the conference, telling J. D. Archbold and other Standard Oil men present that they ought to all be in the penitentiary, and that he would help to put them there.

BEWARE OF THE BACKACHE

A Prescription to Prevent Serious Kidney Disease

Lame Back and Urinary Troubles Are the Danger Signals to Guard Against.

ANYONE CAN MIX IT AT HOME

Many people succumb every year to some form of kidney trouble than any other cause. The slightest form of kidney derangement often develops into Bright's kidney disease, diabetes or dropsy. When either of these diseases are suspected the sufferer should at once seek the best medical attention possible. Consult only a good first-class physician. Leave patent medicines alone.

Too many of the lesser symptoms of kidney trouble which can be treated at home is stated by a well known authority. For some of these such as backache, pain in the region of the kidneys, weak bladder, frequency, (especially at night) painful scalding and other urinary troubles, try the following simple home remedy: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce, Compound Kagon one ounce, Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. These vegetable ingredients are harmless and can be obtained at any good prescription pharmacy and anyone can mix them by shaking well in a bottle. The dose for adults is a teaspoonful after each meal and again at bedtime.

There is no better general remedy known to relieve all forms of rheumatism either because it acts directly upon the kidneys and blood. It cleans the clogged up pores in the kidneys so they can filter and strain from the blood the poisonous uric acid and waste matter which if not eliminated remain in the blood, decompose and settle about the joints and muscular tissues causing the untold suffering and deformity of rheumatism.

Backache is nature's signal notifying the sufferer that the kidneys are not acting properly. "Take care of your kidneys" is now the physician's advice to his patients.

Greek and Roman Artillery.

What Ancient Cannon Were Like, by Alfred Graebnitz, in the Technical World Magazine for January. Is a very interesting account of the reconstruction of the ordnance used by the Greeks and Romans. Says the writer in the course of his article:

Greek ordnance—which was adopted by the Romans without any material alteration—was, almost without exceptions, dependent on the band-bow principle. On trying to shoot a larger bullet to greater distances, the elastic arms of the bow were necessarily made so strong as to be no longer susceptible of tightening by hand. A tension shaft had therefore to be fitted to the bow, which shaft was tightened with levers or hand-wheels. Finally, as the power of bows altogether failed to ensure the efficiency desired, their bending elasticity was replaced by the tension elasticity of steel, that is, rope made from animal sinews, woman's hair, or, in an emergency, horsehair.

CULTURE OF FROGS IS NOT CARED FOR

Kentucky Congressman Smithers Appropriation

Appropriation for Diplomatic Service Comes Up to the House.

SMITH FAMILY IN CONGRESS.

Washington, Jan. 29.—Kentucky isn't going to be committed to appropriating $50,000 of Uncle Sam's money for the benefit of frogs and Frenchmen. When the house committee on agriculture was engaged this week in going over the items of the big appropriation bill, Representative Trimble, of Kentucky jumped to his feet when the item of $50,000 for the biological survey was reached. It developed that this amount was wanted to permit of investigations into the best means for propagating frogs and to discover in just what waters their hind legs would grow best and quickest. Mr. Trimble declared with true Kentucky eloquence that frog legs weren't fit to eat anyway and that only Frenchmen showed such depraved tastes. So out went the item.

The Smith Family.

The election of William Alden Smith, of Michigan, to the senate has led to an investigation of the records, with a view to ascertaining just how many of this noted family have occupied seats in the upper house of congress. They are a numerous clan and were well represented in the continental congress. The first Smith, however, to occupy a seat in the senate came from Tennessee. He was Daniel Smith, and was appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Andrew Jackson. Under the appointment he served three months, but was duly elected in 1805 and served until 1809. From 1859 to 1893 the records show that no Smith wore the toga. In the latter year New Jersey sent James Smith, Jr., Democrat, to the senate, and he served one full term. Peculiarly enough, William Alden Smith is the first Republican of that name to occupy a seat in the Rich Men's club.

Waterways Work.

Chairman Burton, of the house committee on rivers and harbors this week lifted the flood gate, and tumbled onto the floor came the greatest appropriation bill ever presented in the American congress for the development of the nation's waterways. Probably no bill of the present session has received such exhaustive and searching attention as this measure. The country at large recognizes that if present prosperity is to continue the waterways must be developed to provide a new means of transportation, for it has been known plainly and painfully that the commerce of the United States has far outstripped the railroads' capacity to handle it. There is certain to be much acrimonious debate over the passage of the bill, for the reason that the vast number of meritorious enterprises believe they should be recognized more liberally. This will lead to a rapid cross fire of debate, but it is morally certain that it will not in any sense imperil the passage of the measure because of the general recognition that the subject requires a broad and patriotic consideration if the nation's rivers and harbors as a whole are to be steadily bettered.

Congressman Joseph E. Ransdell, of Louisiana, as president of the national rivers and harbors congress, has labored for years to obtain for waterways improvement the recognition that its importance demands. As a result his colleagues are extending their hearty congratulations on the extent of the present bill. Mr. Ransdell declares, however, that the national rivers and harbors congress will not relax its efforts nor modify its demand that an annual appropriation of not less than $50,000,000 be made to carry on this great work that is of such vital importance to the business interests of the entire country.

The passage by the house of the diplomatic appropriation bill this week gave opportunity for the discussion of general politics. It provided $3,000,000 for the diplomatic service, but the item of an additional $500,000 to provide better quarters for the country's representatives abroad was stricken out on a point of order. In the struggle of the United States for the commercial supremacy of the world, it is probable that in succeeding sessions of congress this special bill will take on increasing importance. Strong pleas for comprehensive appropriations were made at the recent session of the national convention for the extension of the foreign commerce of the United States, and as this organization is composed of the most prominent manufacturers and merchants of the country, its request is bound to carry weight. There are also distinct indications that other recommendations of this national convention will be followed, chief among these is an earnest request for more sanity in the framing of laws governing business conditions, and especially the passage of uniform laws for the control of corporations and their protection against conflict and untaking legislation enacted by the different state legislatures. It has been only through economies of production that the United States has been able to build up its export trade to approximately $1,800,000,000 a year, and it is realized that if this trade is shaken by unwise laws, the effect will be felt disastrously by every class of the people.

Preserve Forests.

The disastrous results accompanying the floods in the Ohio Valley have caused genuine concern here in Washington. It is recognized that the cutting of the forests has had much to do with the annual recurrence of these floods, and a careful study of conditions is being made in the hope that some means may be found to prevent them. To this end, it is probable that the principal engineers in the country may be asked to submit ideas. While no steps yet have been taken, it is understood that W. G. McAdoo of New York, who conceived and superintended the construction of the great tunnel under the Hudson river, will be among those asked to submit an opinion. It is unlikely that Mr. McAdoo will be able to make a prompt report, for he is at present at the Homestead hotel in Hot Springs, Va., where he is taking the mineral baths in an effort to recover his health, which is not altogether satisfactory. He is reported to be making rapid strides to recovery, however, and it is probable that he will stop here on his way back to New York for a conference with the proper officials. The immense loss in lives and money chargeable to these annual floods has stirred the administration to the necessity for taking some decisive action.

Panama Hats.

Those who declare that that the Panama hat is as much a thing of the past as the old-fashioned "toddy," are confuted by the letter of Consul Demers, of Barranquilla, Colombia, just made public by the Department of Commerce and Labor. Consul Demers declares that not less than $400,000 worth of these hats were exported from Colombia last year, the industry ranking in importance with coffee, gold hides, cattle, tobacco and rubber. These hats are not made in factories, but are turned out by the peasant women in their homes the women trading them at the stores for household necessities. If it is any satisfaction to the man who pays $12.50 for a hat that costs $3 in the Central American republic, he may like to know that the hats are made from the fibre of the palm known locally as "Jipa-Jipa," the name of which is pronounced by the benighted heathens of those parts as "hippy-happy." Barranquilla sent her first Panama hat to the United States in 1899, since which time the trade has grown enormously and is likely to continue to increase, according to Consul Demers.

LANDED ON HEAD IN ROADSIDE MUD

Rural Carrier on Route No. 3
Almost Suffocated

Oaks Station Road Must Be Repaired or Delivery Will Be Stopped in That Section.

CIVIL SERVICE LAW OF CASE

Harrison Simmons, carrier of rural route, No. 3, performed a "stunt" not set down in the civil service book of rules yesterday afternoon, and as a result the county will have to make needed repairs in the Oaks Station road or a portion of rural route, No. 3, will be "cut out" in pursuance to rules of the government.

Simmons encountered a bad place in the road. It is just three miles from Oaks Station, and several wagons and hopelessly mired in the mud. The mail carrier tried to drive around into shallow parts of the bog, there being no way of getting around the bad place, and suddenly his wheels mired. The wagon came to a sudden stop and Simmons took a "header" out the side of his mail wagon.

Striking on his head he stuck in the mud for several seconds. Farmers left their mired wagons to lend assistance, but Simmons' legs finally touched the ground and he slowly worked his head out of the ten inches of mud.

The rules provide for cutting out portions of rural routes where roads are impassable. This portion of route, No. 3, will be reported and if

National Committee Looks Ominous For Hopes of Vice Prest. Fairbanks

Washington, Jan. 29.—Politicians have not yet ceased speculating upon the motive which actuated Senator Nathan B. Scott, of West Virginia, in making a demand upon Postmaster-General Cortelyou last week to call together the Republican National Committee for the purpose of electing a new Chairman. Mr. Cortelyou resigned the Chairmanship and Harry S. New, of Indianapolis, became the acting chairman by virtue of the fact that he had been designated a year and a half ago as Vice Chairman.

Several days ago Senator Heyburn, of Idaho, allied himself with Senator Scott, and drew up a petition for circulation among his fellow members on the committee, urging that a meeting be called for some time next month.

But just as the politicians had their appetites whetted for some interesting developments he announced that he had withdrawn the petition. That left Senator Scott to his own devices, and not being an especially resourceful man, he has not yet succeeded in making any headway with his scheme.

In view of the fact that Harry New is known to be not at all enthusiastic over Vice President Fairbanks' political aspirations many politicians formed the opinion that the design of the West Virginia Senator was to have a Chairman elected who would be at least friendly to the Vice President if not an actual advocate of his nomination for the Presidency in 1908.

Wanted to Be Chairman.
Senator Scott himself entered a vigorous denial of the report that his purpose was to convert the committee into a Fairbanks organization, and there is no doubt that he was sincere in it; for it is probably the truth that his request for a special meeting of the committee was inspired by an ambition to be elected Mr. Cortelyou's successor as Chairman.

At the same time it is difficult for politicians to get away from the idea that if Senator Scott's plan had been successful, the National Committee would have undergone some decided political change. At present the committee is controlled by national administration influences. Its members for the most part are on cordial terms with the President and Postmaster-General and the indications are that this influence will be felt next year when the struggle for the Presidential nomination is under way.

There is no doubt that Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Cortelyou will exert considerable pressure, if possible, upon the men who will name the next Republican candidate, and for that reason it is desirable that the head of the committee be a man of their choosing.

Has Much Influence.
There would be no telling what Senator Scott or some other man might do were he elected as Chairman prior to the meeting of the committee next December to select a time and place for the next convention, or during the first five or six months of 1908 when the candidates for the nomination will be coming down the home stretch.

The Chairman of the committee is in a position to make his influence felt in decided contests among rival delegations for seats in the convention, and this power, in the event the contest for the nomination is very close, might determine its result.

However, there is no likelihood whatever that Colonel New will be disturbed in his position until after the meeting of the next convention. He will call the convention to order and after a ticket has been nominated and a platform adopted, the nomination will choose his own campaign manager and he will become the Chairman of the committee.

Had An Agreement.
When Harry New was appointed Vice Chairman by Mr. Cortelyou a year and a half ago it was with the distinct understanding that he was not to undertake to manipulate the committee in the interest of any candidate. Quite naturally the friends of Vice President Fairbanks looked upon this as an unfriendly move knowing as they did, that New was not a Fairbanks booster.

This would indicate, moreover, that the administration would like to see some one else nominated than the Vice President. However, the acting Chairman, in an interview here today, said that Indiana would be for Mr. Fairbanks, and even though he might prefer to see some one else nominated, he would line up with his own state.

Considerable preliminary maneuvering is now being done by various aspirants for the nomination, but the Vice President is the only one who is doing any actual work toward securing delegates. By virtue of his position he is embarrassed in any sense whatever in his movements and is free to operate wherever and whenever he pleases.

Is Making Progress.
It is to early, of course, for him to be attaining any material results, but it is admitted by politicians who know what is going on that he is making some progress.

Two months hence Secretary of the Treasury Sew, who is looked upon as formidable candidate, will also be foot loose and able to give some time and attention to the promotion of his candidacy. He will then be out of the Cabinet and not be restricted in his actions as he now necessarily is.

Senator Foraker, of Ohio, whose chances are also regarded as favorable is receiving encouraging letters from various parts of the country, and his friends believe that his championing of the case of the negro soldiers who were dismissed from the army by the President is bound to insure him delegates from some of the Southern States.

Isn't it strange that men who brag always brag about something that doesn't interest you in the least?

Cigarettes, Novels and Wine Jellies Barred From Adamless Eden Hotel

New York, Jan. 29.—At a directors' meeting in the Martha Washington hotel tomorrow a denunciation of fair guests will present their formal charge against Mark A. Cadwell, manager. These were the charges that were brought forward at a meeting of the stockholders, but which were referred to the board of directors because Mrs. Russell Sage and John D. Rockefeller and Miss Helen Gould didn't like to take them up.

The charges are as eccentric as some of the women who have spent nights thinking them up. Here are the more serious ones:

"That the head waitress is too fat."

"That Mrs. Wharton's novel, 'The House of Mirth,' is barred from the hotel library, as Miss Pickles, the librarian, deems it immoral, in that Lilly Bart, the heroine, smoked cigarettes."

"That wine jellies are never served, because the manager believes them, intoxicating."

Slice of Toast 10 Cents.
"That only one piece of toast is given for 10 cents."

The exclusive woman's hotel is in the throes of a dearth struggle. Half of the guests are accusing Mr. Cadwell of all those dreadful things narrated above, and the other half is coming to his support, insisting that he is a "dear, sweet man."

Preparing for the fray some of Mr. Cadwell's most ardent supporters yesterday circulated a testimonial and secured 200 signatures.

When Miss S. A. Shepley was asked to sign the testimonial she refused and said:

"I like Mr. Cadwell personally, ladies, but I will not sign unless he employs a negro cook."

Miss J. D. Hodgson, a trained nurse, also refused to sign the letter because the rice was not cooked as she liked it.

According to the gossip of the hotel Mrs. A. C. Lyons has taken a decided stand against Manager Cadwell because on foggy days he will not rush up as requested and clean her windows.

RIVER NEWS

River Stages.
Cairo	50.0	0.3 fall

Cincinnati	32.8	8.1 fall
Evansville	44.8	0.7 fall
Florence	4.1	0.4 fall
Louisville	20.7	6.8 fall
Mt. Carmel	24.1	0.4 fall
Nashville	12.7	2.6 fall
Pittsburg	3.8	0.7 fall
Mt. Vernon	48.0	0.4 fall
Paducah	45.6	0.1 fall

Fastidiousness is not characteristic of rivermen; and far from demanding "whole hog or none," they accept the one-tenth fall in the last 24 hours with great satisfaction. The gauge this morning registered a stage of 45.6.

The Joe Wheeler slipped in last night from Chattanooga without warning. Fifteen hundred ties for Brookport were part of the freight trip, and the Wheeler will be several days around Paducah getting a return trip.

Lumber measuring 165,000 feet was brought in on the City of Memphis this morning from the Tennessee river. Seventy-seven hogs and some cattle were unloaded here. The lumber goes to Joppy. The Memphis will leave Wednesday evening for the Tennessee river.

Joppy has fine facilities for handling freight from the steamboats. Rail harges on which the cars are placed make it possible for the steamboats to unload right into the cars and a barge with cars can be placed on each side of the boat.

A number of the ways mechanics are working over at the Ayer-Lord fleet. The Russell Lord is being repaired lightly.

Barges and boats ahead of the dry docks were moved out today to allow the Lyda, which has been finished several days, to be let off. The Charles Turner will be taken out. Barges are being repaired on the other half of the dry docks.

The Oakland passed up this morning with a tow of empties from the lower Mississippi river. The Harry Brown passed up yesterday.

The I. N. Hook arrived last night from the Tennessee river with a tow of ties. The Margaret did not get away for the Tennessee river until today.

What space is a question being agitated among river men in Paducah now. The wharftop people especially and all rivermen who have the interest of the river at heart want the city to take over the small plot of ground left without improvements. It is the ground south of the Armour depot extending to Kentucky avenue. If that is built up, the gangway on the south end of the wharftop would be useless in high water. At present the two gangways saddle the Armour depot. Speaking of the wharf space question one river man said this morning:

"If the government makes the improvements on the river which it seems likely will be made, Paducah will be a most important river point. Many more boats would be running and various subsidiary enterprises would flourish. The improvements on the river will go a long way toward giving Paducah 50,000 or 75,000 people and it is probable that the river front from Jefferson street to Washington street will be cleared of the houses now standing. Even then the wharf space would not be sufficient. It would be short-sighted for the city to allow any more building on river front property east of First street. It is apparent now that we are crowded at the wharf here."

John Street, night wharfmaster, saw an empty coal barge floating down the river early this morning. It probably came from the coal docks in the Tennessee river.

Official Forecasts.
The Ohio at Evansville will fall for an indefinite period at a rapidly increasing rate. At Mt. Vernon will continue falling the rate of fall becoming rapid Wednesday or Thursday. At Paducah will commence falling today. At Cairo will fall for an indefinite period. Rate of fall will become rapid at Paducah and Cairo by Friday or Saturday.

The Tennessee from Florence to below Johnsonville will continue falling.

The Mississippi from below St. Louis to Cairo will continue falling. The Wabash at Mt. Carmel will probably commence falling today. Floating ice will continue in the Mississippi for several days.

Appeal in Criminal Cases.

Washington, Jan. 29.—The senate committee on the judiciary today discussed the bill giving the government the right to appeal in certain criminal cases and authorized a sub-committee, composed of Senators Nelson, Knox, Spooner and Pettus, to perfect the measure and report it to the senate.
